FAMILY MEMORIES OF PAUL, DAD AND GRANDAD

Tom and Chester

Saddleback toots its horn,
I play it too,
And many play its song,
And I think you should too.

Its tune is that of:

Sloping sides and highborn ridges
That plunge upon a landscape
Where no tree is seen,
And the wind is allowed to howl free with wanderlust,
Fading as light dwindles.

Wandering through fortitude,
Dots mossy greens flower?
And peat marshes that light has never seen,
They fill the ever-expanding occupancy of space.

Its sharp cliffs shatter this reality,
Keeping it grounded and frail,
And a long trek is needed to complete the majesty of its virtue
But the path is green not grey.

POEM

Instructions by Arnold Crompton

read by Ruth

When I have moved beyond you in the adventure of life,
Gather in some pleasant place and there remember me
 With spoken words, old and new.
Let a tear fall if you will, but let a smile come quickly
 For I have loved the laughter of life.
Do not linger too long with your solemnities.
 Go eat and talk, and when you can;
Follow a woodland trail, climb a high mountain,
 Walk along the wild seashore,
 Chew the thoughts of some book
 Which challenges your soul.
 Use your hands some bright day
 To make a thing of beauty
 Or to lift someone's heavy load.
 Though you mention not my name,
 Though no thought of me crosses your mind,
 I shall be with you,
For these have been the realities of my life for me.
And when you face some crisis with anguish.
 When you walk alone with courage,
 When you choose your path of right,
 I shall be very close to you.
 I have followed the valleys,
 I have climbed the heights of life.
