A REFLECTION OF MEMORIES
It's So Romantic by Ella Fitzgerald

POEM

When I come to the end of the road
and the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in a gloom filled room;
why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little, but not for long
and not with your head bowed low.
Remember the love that we shared;
miss me but let me go.
For this is the journey we all must take
and each must go alone.
It's all part of the greater plan,
a step on the road to home.

“Farewell Alan, we commend your free spirit to live on in the hearts of everyone you touched along the way.”

Farewell my friends, shed no tears I need them not all I need is your smile.

So come in the shade of the evening
when the sun paints the sky in the West,
stand for a few moments, think of me
and remember only my best.
