Poem

The Fighter

written by Joanne McGee

read by Margaret

The fighter who has lost the battle
Leaves behind the pain of dying alone.
Will those familial voices be heard on the phone
As he catapults towards the light of his creation?
Life has artificially hung in the balance
With the aid of temporary support.
Those that surround him have been his army,
Battling with him to hang onto preservation.
Everyday looking for just that glimmer,
That victory may be theirs and his,
But the light was slowly dying day by day.
The fight was going to be in vain, but they never gave up.
Where there is life, there is always hope.
Oh, how to be surrounded by warriors,
But strangers in your time of need giving their all.
Now all that remains is grief and memories
Because that battle has slipped away.
Eternal peace is what waits now for that brave hero.
The light is finally extinguished like a wet finger on a candle wick.
With sorrow in our hearts life goes on.
The sword is still, the enemy has won.

Prayers

including

The Lord's Prayer

Our Father, who art in heaven,
hallowed be Thy name;
Thy Kingdom come;
Thy will be done,
on earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread.
And forgive us our trespasses,
as we forgive those who trespass against us.
And lead us not into temptation,
but deliver us from evil.
For Thine is the Kingdom,
the power and the glory,
for ever and ever.
Amen.
