POEM

adapted from Clickety Clack
by Robyn O'Connell

Knit one, purl one, knit one, purl one,
The band was almost done.
The sound of the knitting machine going clickety clack–
Finish one row, then start another.
Finally, it was taking shape,
Like a bird making a home in its nest.
We know whatever Eva made,
It was sure to be one of the best.
Wonderful gifts, each stitch made with love,
A creative gift, that was so easy to see.
A jumper for this one, some scarves for them, too.
For the baby in the family, just newly born,
A bonnet, a jacket, and bootees, too.
Will they need to be made in blue or in pink?
Perhaps lemon is safe – she could do them there and then.
Her knitting machine is now silent,
Not a sound no more will it make,
But what a wonderful lesson Eva has left us:
To always give more than you take.
