POEM
I Heard Your Voice In The Wind Today

I heard your voice in the wind today and I turned to see your face;
The warmth of the wind caressed me as I stood silently in place.
I felt your touch in the sun today as its warmth filled the sky;
I closed my eyes for your embrace and my spirit soared high.
I saw your eyes in the window pane as I watched the falling rain;
It seemed, as each raindrop fell, it quietly said your name.
I held you close in my heart today, it made me feel complete;
You may have died, but you are not gone, you will always be a part of me.
As long as the sun shines, the wind blows, the rain falls,
You will live on inside of me forever, for that is all my heart knows.

FAREWELL

POEM
Grandad

written by Roy's granddaughter, Hayley

It all started when I was first born,
The day I first met you:
A bond that would never be broken,
A bond that was so true.
You picked me up and held me close,
I knew you were there for me.
You were the best grandad we could ask for,
I'm sure everyone will agree.
Days at your house were so special,
Where I would eat all your grub.
Frizzled cheese was the best by far,
But the place we belonged was the pub.
I spent those nights by your side, While you were playing cards.
You'd buy me crisps and a J20, Those Friday nights were ours.
And then, one day, there came a time
Where I would have to take care of you.
I hope that I have made you proud In everything I did do.
You loved your family, you loved to work,
You loved to be gardening when it was sunny,
But there's no denying the most important thing;
There's nothing you loved more than money.
You were my world and so much more,
You meant everything to me.
I hope that now you are at peace,
I hope that you are free.
And now I'm at the end of this speech,
There's something I want to discuss:
When Mum and Mama are calling me,
Give them one of your 'f offs' from us.
