Poem

The Red Robin by John Clare
read by great-granddaughter, Honey

Cock Robin, he got a neat tippet at spring,
And he sat in a shed and heard other birds sing,
And he whistled a ballad as loud as he could,
And built him a nest of oak leaves by the wood.

And furnished it just as the celandine pressed
Like a bright, burning blaze by the edge o' its nest,
All glittering with sunshine and beautiful rays
Like high, polished brass or the fire in a blaze.

Then sung a new song on the bend o' the brere
And so it kept singing the whole of the year,
Till cowslips and wild roses blossomed and died,
The red robin sung by the old spring side.

Psalm 23

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul:
He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness
for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,
I will fear no evil:
for Thou art with me;

Thy rod and Thy staff, they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me
in the presence of mine enemies:
Thou anointest my head with oil;
my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
all the days of my life:
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

The Lord's Prayer

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name.
Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us.
And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.
For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory,
for ever and ever. Amen.
