WELCOME AND INTRODUCTION

POEM
All Is Well

Death is nothing at all.
I have only slipped away to the next room.
I am I and you are you.
Whatever we were to each other,
That we are still.

Call me by my old familiar name.
Speak to me in the easy way
Which you have always used.
Put no difference in your tone.
Wear no forced air of solemnity or sorrow.

Laugh as we always laughed
At the little jokes we enjoyed together.
Let my name be ever the household word
That it always was.
Let it be spoken without effect.
Without a trace of a shadow in it.

Life means all that it ever meant.
It is the same as it ever was;
There is unbroken continuity.
Why should I be out of mind
Because I am out of sight?

I am waiting for you, for an interval.
Somewhere very near, just around the corner.

All is well.

Henry Scott Holland (1847 – 1918)

A white hedgehog is the central focus, lying in a field of yellow flowers. The background is a soft, out-of-focus landscape with more yellow flowers and a bright, hazy sky. The overall tone is warm and gentle.

POEM

We cannot judge a biography by its length,
Nor by the number of pages in it.
We must judge it by the richness of its contents,
Sometimes those unfinished are among the most poignant.

We cannot judge a song by its duration,
Nor by the number of its notes.
We must judge it by the way it touches and lifts our souls,
Sometimes those unfinished are among the most beautiful.

And when something has enriched your life,
And when its melody lingers on in your heart,
Is it unfinished? Or is it endless?
