WORDS OF WELCOME

A HUMOROUS POEM

Dear Mother,

Mick's grandfather is still staying with us. He is 94 now.

The first thing he does in the morning is read the newspaper in bed.

He looks in the deaths and if his name isn't in it, he gets up.

Last week he thought he had a hole in his heart, but it turned out to be a polo mint in his pyjama pocket.

There was a washing machine in the new house when we moved in.

Last week I put in 10 shirts, pulled the chain, and haven't seen the shirts since.

Mick says he wants to buy me a dog. He says if he gets a black and white one the licence will be cheaper. He went to the doctor last week, but when he came home he said the doctor mustn't be much good because all his patients were sick. The doctor told him to drink a hot glass of orange after a hot bath.

He's still drinking the hot bath. The doctor says Mick suffers from alcoholic constipation, it means he can't pass a pub.

Your loving daughter,

Mary
