The Broken Chain by Ron Tranmer

We little knew, that morning, that God was going to call your name.

In life, we loved you dearly; in death, we do the same.

It broke our hearts to lose you, but you did not go alone,
For part of us went with you the day God called you home.

You left us peaceful memories, your love is still our guide
And though we cannot see you, you were always at our side.

Our family chain is broken and nothing seems the same,
But as God calls us one by one, the chain will link us again.

The background of the page is a faded, light-colored photograph of a beach scene. On the left, two tall palm trees stand prominently. In the middle ground, a large, modern building with a curved roof and a prominent tower is visible, possibly a hotel or resort. The foreground shows a sandy beach with a metal railing leading down to the water. The overall tone is bright and airy, with a soft, hazy atmosphere.
